Second Step; Common Sharing and Discussion

3. Thoughts for Teaching or Input

a) The child-likeness of Jesus

- Jesus was a child-like person. Friendly, alive, intuitive, sincere, consistent, authentic, true, joyous, full of feeling, easy to deal with, spontaneous, generous, tender, simple, etc.
- Jesus loved children because he himself was 'child-like'. He possessed the very qualities he loved in children. Like them, he was genuine, transparent, friendly, simple, humble, trusting, etc.
- The entire life of Jesus was just living out the nature of a child. Quote Gospel passages to prove that Jesus possessed the qualities of a child.
  - Genuine: He cried, he got angry, he felt hungry, he enjoyed the company of friends, he loved Nature, etc.
  - Transparent: He never deceived anyone; all knew where they stood with Jesus, no falsehood, pretence, hypocrisy, etc.
  - Friendly: With his disciples, John, Mary Magdalene, Martha, Lazarus, sinners, the poor, the outcast, the downtrodden, etc.
  - Alive: To people and situations - At Cana: No wine; At Naim: The widow's affliction; In the Temple: The poor woman's mite, etc.
  - Intuitive: His quick and witty replies to the Pharisees and his opponents (Taxes to be paid to Caesar, adulterous woman, etc.)
  - Perceptive: Of Nature (flowers, rains, etc.), people, events of life, persons' characters, etc.
  - Full of feeling: Feeling compassion for the crowds (multiplication of bread and fishes), affection towards children, compassion for the suffering, etc.
  - Forgiving: Forgiving sinners, Peter, Matthew, the Good Thief, the Adulterous Woman, his executioners, etc.

b) Jesus Expects Us, his Disciples to be like Him- 'child-like' and 'child – loving'

- To be a Christian means to be Jesus-like, namely child-like as Jesus.
- The mysteries of God, the teachings of the Gospel can be grasped only by little children and their likes.
- The beatitudes can be understood and practised only by 'child-like' people.
- Sophisticated, cynical and self-sufficient people have no place in the Kingdom of God.
- All duplicity, political manoeuvring and chicanery are alien to the spirit of the Gospel.
- Jesus warned us: When you speak, say YES or NO! Any other thing you say comes from the evil one.

c) Difficulties We May Encounter to Become 'child-like'

- Due to our past education and training, we shall have to undo much of what we have been taught and of what we practised for long years!
- We shall have to shed the ways and the values of the world we live in. There is nothing much of 'child-likeness' in our world and society.
- Our world is one of sophistication, deceit, crookedness, duplicity, diplomacy, pretence, expediency.
- We shall have to go likely against the ways and values of our own homes, families and friends. "One's worst enemies" Jesus said, "are the members of one's own family".
- Our friends and relatives will make all efforts to keep us 'sensible', 'serious', 'formal', 'well-behaved', 'grown-up'!
- They will try to keep us 'in-line'. They will use all possible gimmicks to keep us 'well-adjusted' to the 'anti-evangelical' and sophisticated market values of today.
- We shall have to face misunderstandings, rejection and the loss of old friends.

d) To be like Jesus we have to love Children

- If we are 'child-like,' spontaneously, we shall love children and feel at home with them.
- To the extent we do not love children; we have already lost our childlikeness.
- To love children would mean that we feel true affection, tenderness and fondness for them, that we are attracted to their Jesus-like qualities.
- Our love for children should not be only idealistic or sentimental, but sort of a natural affinity both with children and also with those – young or old persons - who are Jesus-like.

e) Loving Children Means

- To understand them, their needs, wants and aspirations.
- To respect them as human beings.

- To accept them as children with their weakness and shortcomings.
- To safeguard their rights.
- To spend time with them and enjoy their company.
- To be able to talk and listen to them and relate with them as equals.
- To feel at ease in their company.
- Even to play with them.
- To let go of our ‘pomposity’, ‘officiousness’, ‘formality’, ‘self-importance’, ‘superiority’.

f) Benefits From Loving Children

- We shall easily become ‘child-like’.
- We shall be ‘Jesus-like’.
- We shall grow in humility, simplicity, joy, genuineness, meekness, peace of mind.
- We shall feel satisfied, happy, relaxed, free, fulfilled.
- We shall become ‘loveable’ and ‘loving’.
- We shall find it easy to practise the Gospel, the evangelical virtues and beatitudes.
- Our prayer life will be simple, meaningful and consoling.
- In all truth, we shall be able to call God ‘Our Father’.
