

THE MAN AND THE LION

(From Aesop's Fables)

Each one has is own version of reality.

A Man and a Lion traveled together through the forest. They soon began to boast of their respective superiority to each other in strength and prowess. As they were disputing, they passed a statue carved in stone, which represented "a Lion caged by Man." The traveler pointed to it and said: "See there! How strong we are, and how we prevail over even the king of beasts."

The Lion replied: "This statue was made by one of you men. If we Lions knew how to erect statues; you would see the Man placed under the paw of the Lion."
